Chris Milk uses cutting edge technology to produce astonishing films that delight and enchant. But for Milk, the human story is the driving force behind everything he does. In this short, charming talk, he shows some of his collaborations with musicians including Kanye West and Arcade Fire, and describes his latest, mind-bending experiments with virtual reality.

"It's not a video game peripheral. It connects humans to other humans in a profound way that I've never seen before in any other form of media. And it can change people's perception of each other."

The DesignMeeting Award is an international competition for art college and university students of all design fields of studies. The competition aims to confront and compare works created by students of various European schools, to explore the national influence and different approaches to design in general. It also aims to support young talented artists and to give them the possibility to network and get valuable contacts from the field of design.

The competition entries can include for example graphic design, visual communication, product design, fashion design, ceramic design, glass design, food design, interior design etc.

OPPOR

'Emerging in Making – rethinking local design production' – is a one week intensive workshop to question and investigate the value and assets in the local manufacturing of furniture and related products. The course will be organised in the Sykkylven – region on the west coast of Norway. This particular area is historically important concentration of two-third of the Norwegian furniture manufacturing industry.
